

Robert Philbin

Pianist and Violinist

Robert Philbin teaches piano using the popular Suzuki method. Trained in piano and violin in both the classical and the Suzuki method, he was able to experience firsthand the benefits of the Suzuki approach for beginners and more advanced players. “I think anybody can learn much faster and with more success without having to read music at first. This way, they can focus entirely on the instrument and develop their listening skills at the same time.” Robert is currently a member of the Mountain View Music Chamber Ensemble and is working on completing more advanced Suzuki training. He is accepting students of all ages and is looking forward to teaching them.
